Continuation of Brief Description of Arguments to be Presented:

to the independent claim 1 that would distinguish claim 1 over the Conway reference. The Applicants submitted the claims as amended in the response dated June 25, 2007. In the present Office Action, Examiner Graham merely inserted these new limitations into the discussion from his previous Office Action, providing no additional citations, or any additional discussion of how the Conway reference teaches these new limitations. After reviewing the Conway reference in light of these claim amendments, the Applicants respectfully submit that the Conway reference indeed does not teach collecting a set of hospital data when the hospital data includes hospital statistics, factual information, and hospital macro data. Furthermore, it follows that Conway further does not teach assigning an hourly cost to each care unit for each patient based upon the set of collected hospital data. The Applicants would like to discuss this as the main point of the interview.

Furthermore, Examiner Graham indicates that Conway fails to explicitly teach simulating the flow of patients through the hospital using the model wherein the simulating step utilizes the collected data and using the model and the results of the simulating step to recommend hospital resources changes (sic). The Applicant has reviewed the new reference Schniederman, and notes that the word "simulate" or any derivative of this word is only used on two occasions in the entire 300 page reference. This word is utilized in the abstract of the Schiederman reference and further in the background of the Schiederman reference. After reviewing the abstract and the claim 1 of Schniederman, and further a great portion of the 300 page reference, the Applicants are not sure the Schniederman Reference teaches simulating the flow of patients through hospital using a model wherein the simulating step utilizes collected data and the results of the simulating step is used to recommend hospital resource changes. As a secondary issue, the Applicant would like to discuss the Schniederman reference with the Examiners in order to further clarify what the Schniederman reference actually teaches. In any case, the Applicant is highly appreciative of the Examiner and the Supervisory Examiner's willingness to interview this case.
